A smoothie typically contains the fruit or vegetable in its entirety, providing the additional health benefits of the roughage, skin, seeds containing all the original fiber from the fruit and vegetable itself.

Some call it soda. Others say soft drink, fizzy drink, soda pop, or just plain-old pop. There is no right word for the sweet carbonated beverage. The sweetener may be sugar, high-fructose corn syrup, fruit juice, sugar substitutes or some combination of these.
